

Turn Instagram views into booking inquiries

Two free changes: a bio that tells buyers what to do, and one inquiry page in place of the Linktree. Every post and every future ad sends people through both.

Prepared for: TripNerd CEO Prepared by: _____ Cost: $0 in media spend

What the account shows today

13.9K

views in the last 30 days, about 3 times the follower count

-1.8%

change in followers over the same 30 days

3

new follows from the two best-performing posts combined

People are seeing TripNerd's content. They are not taking the next step. The profile is where that step should happen, and right now it doesn't name an offer or a way to book.

Source: TripNerd Instagram Insights, Sep 6 to Oct 6, 2026.

CHANGE 1

A bio that sells in five seconds

TODAY

9:41

31

+

tripnerd

Can't decide...

TripNerd

PAN EXPERIENCES

515 posts4,650 followers495 following

Event Planner

What sporting event is on your bucket list?

Gain access to these experiences for lifelong memories!

linktr.ee/tripnerd

+ Add banners

Your dashboard

13.9K views in the last 30 days.

Edit profile

Share profile

Email

Discover people

PROPOSED

tripnerd

Current logo stays

515 posts4,650 followers495 following

TripNerd | Sports Fan Experiences

Travel Agency

Masters · Super Bowl · PGA hospitality

Tickets, hotel and transport handled. Based in Chicago.

DM "EVENT" for a quote, or tap below

tripnerd.com/inquire (example)

Get a quote

Message

Golf

Football

Reviews

How it works

Pinned

Events we cover

Pinned

A client's story

Pinned

How booking works

What changes	Why it matters to a buyer
Name line says what TripNerd sells	Instagram search reads this line, so "Sports Fan Experiences" helps the right people find the account.
Events, what's handled, and the city	A visitor knows in seconds whether TripNerd can get them where they want to go.
One clear next step	"DM 'EVENT'" is easy to act on and easy to count.
"Get a quote" button and one link	One tap to an inquiry instead of a menu of links.
Three pinned posts and highlights	Answers the three buyer questions: what you cover, can I trust you, how does it work.

CHANGE 2

One inquiry page instead of a Linktree

TODAY

linktr.ee/tripnerd

Link 1

Link 2

Link 3

Link 4

Illustration of a link menu. The visitor has to choose, then click again, before reaching any way to inquire.

PROPOSED

TRIPNERD · CHICAGO

Bucket-list sports events, fully handled.

Tickets, hotel, transport and hospitality for you, your family, or your clients.

Events we cover

The Masters

from $____

Super Bowl

from $____

Phoenix Open

from $____

Final Four

from $____

How it works

1. Tell us the event and group size.

2. Get a quote within ____.

3. Show up. We handle the rest.

Get your quote

Name

Phone or email

Which event?

How many people?

For: myself · family · clients

Request my quote

Mockup only. Blanks are filled in by TripNerd.

Part of the page	What it does for TripNerd
One headline about the outcome	Matches what the visitor just saw on Instagram, so they don't bounce.
Events with a starting price	Filters out people who can't afford it before they take up anyone's time.
Three-step "how it works"	Removes the worry that a big purchase will be complicated.
Five-field form, including "for myself, family, or clients"	Every lead arrives with the event, group size and whether it's a corporate sale.
One page for every post and ad	Inquiries can be counted, so we can see which posts and ads produce them.

Why this is worth doing first

No media cost.

Both changes use the account and tools TripNerd already has. The only cost is time, plus hosting if the page goes on a new site.

Every future post and ad benefits.

Paid ads send people to the profile and the link. If those don't convert, ad spend leaks. Fixing them first protects that spend.

Speaks to the buyer the data shows.

The clearest real audience is US men aged 35 to 54. The new wording is built for two of them: the business owner hosting clients, and the fan buying a bucket-list trip.

Easy to undo.

The old bio can be put back in a minute. Nothing is deleted.

How we'll know it worked

We compare the 30 days before the change with the 30 days after. No result is promised; these are the numbers we'll report.

Measure	Where it comes from
Link taps from the profile	Instagram Insights
"EVENT" direct messages	Instagram inbox count
Quote requests from the page	Form submissions
Quotes that become bookings	TripNerd's records

What we need from you

1. Approve the bio wording, or edit it.
2. Confirm the events to list and a starting price for each, or approve "price on request."
3. Confirm the keyword for messages ("EVENT" or another word).
4. Name who answers inquiries, and how fast TripNerd will reply.
5. Choose where the page lives: a page on TripNerd's website, or a simple landing-page tool.
6. Approve 2 or 3 real client photos or reviews for the pinned posts, with the clients' permission.

Nothing goes live without your sign-off. The event list, "Based in Chicago," and the category change come from TripNerd's public profiles and need your confirmation. Blanks such as prices and reply time are yours to fill. No reviews or prices have been invented.

Mockups are illustrations for discussion, not live pages. The "Today" image is a screenshot of the TripNerd profile taken October 8, 2026.