

Two free changes to turn views into inquiries

TripNerd's posts drew 13.9K views in the last 30 days, but followers fell 1.8%. People are seeing the content and leaving without a next step. These two changes give them one.

CHANGE 1

Rewrite the bio

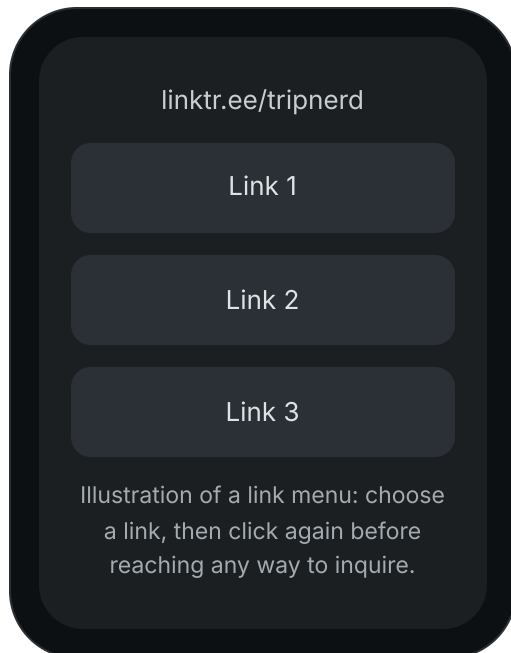

Why:

- "VIP Sports Travel" sits in the name line, the part Instagram search reads.
- It sells access, not logistics, to both buyers: the client host and the bucket-list fan.
- The proof line builds trust before the first message.
- "DM 'TRIP'" is one easy, countable step. The old bio can be restored in a minute.

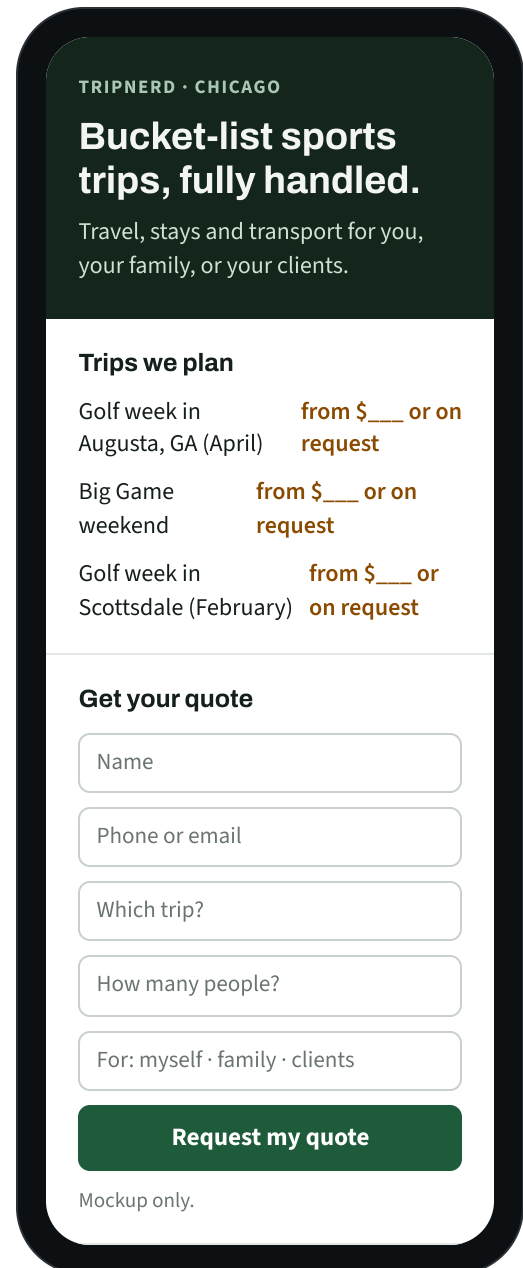

CHANGE 2

Replace the Linktree with one inquiry page

TODAY

PROPOSED

Why:

- One tap from Instagram to an inquiry, instead of a menu of links.
- Every lead arrives with the trip, group size, and whether it's a corporate sale.
- Inquiries can be counted, so we can see which posts and ads bring them in.

Four questions for you

Question 1: What proof can we show in the bio?

The line "🏆 __ yrs · __ trips planned" needs real numbers you can back up: years in business and trips planned. If those aren't available, we can use a client review count instead, or drop the line.

☐ Years: ____

☐ Trips planned: ____

☐ Use reviews instead

☐ Drop the line

Question 2: Should we pin three posts to the top of the profile?

Suggested: the trips TripNerd plans, one client's story, and how booking works. Pinned posts are the first thing a visitor sees, and these three answer "what do you do, can I trust you, how do I book." Client photos would be used only with the client's permission.

☐ Yes, pin these three

☐ Yes, but different posts

☐ No

Question 3: Can we show pricing publicly?

Showing a starting price filters out people who can't afford it, so your team spends time on real buyers. Some events or partners may not allow published prices. We'll follow whatever you choose.

☐ Show "from $" prices

☐ Some trips only

☐ "Price on request"

Question 4: Is TripNerd an official or licensed partner for any event?

Event names like the Masters and the Super Bowl are trademarks, and their owners enforce them. This proposal names places and seasons instead, such as "Augusta, GA in April." If TripNerd holds an official partnership for an event, we can name that event, within the partner agreement. Please also confirm whether TripNerd resells event tickets or badges, because that changes what we can say.

☐ Yes, official for: _____

☐ No official partnerships

☐ Let's discuss

Nothing goes live without your sign-off. On purpose, this proposal uses no event names, event logos, or venue photos, and makes no claim about tickets or badges. "Chicago" and the trip list come from TripNerd's public profiles and need your confirmation. We recommend a trademark attorney review the final wording before it is posted.
